1.5 million public sector workers will be striking on 28 March – make sure you are one of them. 11 trade unions working together are determined to defend the Local Government Pension Scheme. Your commitment is essential if we are to win a fair deal on pensions

Strike action is always the last resort for dedicated public sector workers, but the Government has refused to listen to our concerns. They are determined to press ahead with their attacks on the LGPS – your pension scheme.

Even if you are not in the LGPS your support is important.

We are asking all members who have been balloted to:

- strike on 28 March
- fully support local activities on the day
- attend union meetings about the dispute
- encourage non-members to become union members.

Members in the NHS and other sectors could show solidarity by donating to the strike fund and joining in any lawful activities.

Working together we can defend our pension scheme and win our case for equality of treatment with other public sector workers.
